2	OF THE
3	STATE OF OREGON
4 5	In The Matter of the Appeal of DEBI MEIER,	Case No.: FDA-13-01
6 7	Appellant,	TOTALICO OF EACE CONCLUCIONS OF
8 9 10	SALEM-KEIZER SCHOOL DISTRICT, District.	FINDINGS OF FACT, CONCLUSIONS OF LAW AND ORDER
11	INTRO	DDUCTION
12	Appellant, a school counselor, was dismissed from her employment with Salem-Keizer
13	School District (the "District") on January 22, 2013. She timely appealed to the Fair Dismissal
14	Appeals Board ("FDAB") on January 30, 2013. A hearing on the merits was conducted in
15	Salem, Oregon on May 7 and 8, 2013. Appellant was represented by John S. Bishop, Attorney a
16	Law, and the District was represented by Rebekah R. Jacobson, Attorney at Law. The hearing
17	was conducted before a panel appointed from the FDAB, consisting of David Krumbein, Dennis
18	Ross, and Carolyn Ramey. The panel, having considered the evidence and the arguments of 19	counsel, makes the following rulings, findings	, conclusions and order.
20	PANEL RULINGS A	AND OTHER MATTERS
21	The Appellant objected to the admission	on of Exhibits D-8, D-9, and D-20 on the basis of
22	relevance. The panel overruled that objection	and admitted those exhibits. The District objected
23	to the admission of Exhibits A-12, A-13, and A-14 on the grounds of relevance. The panel
24	overruled that objection and admitted those ex	chibits. These rulings and all other rulings were
25	reviewed and determined to be correct.
26

1	After the hearing, the Appellant filed a motion to supplement the record to admit Exhibit
2	A-18. Exhibit A-18 is a copy of a print-out obtained on June 21, 2013 from the Oregon Judicial
3	Department's online information system, the "Oregon Judicial Information Network" or "OJIN.
4	The print-out shows the status on June 21, 2013 of State v. Debi Meier, Marion County Circuit
5	Court Case No. 13C40782, the case in which Appellant was charged with the offense of failing
6	to report child abuse. The print-out shows that a 66-minute trial occurred before the court on
7	June 21, 2013. The court found Appellant not guilty of the offense. In support of her argument
8	that Exhibit A-18 should be admitted, Appellant argued that the OJIN print-out should be
9	admitted because the panel admitted Exhibit D-9, which is an OJIN print-out showing the status
10	of State v. Debi Meier, Marion County Circuit Court Case No. 13C40782, as of April 23, 2013.
11	Appellant also argued that Lt. Lance Inman testified about Exhibit D-9 during the hearing befor
12	the panel; therefore, this panel should admit Exhibit A-18 to ensure that the record regarding
13	State v. Debi Meier, Marion County Circuit Court Case No. 13C40782, is complete.
14	The District opposed Appellant's motion to supplement the record on the basis that (a)
15	the record in this case was closed on May 8, 2013, (b) the District has no opportunity to respond
16	to Exhibit A-18 if it is admitted, and (c) exhibits not distributed before the hearing should be
1,7	excluded pursuant to OAR 586-030-0050.
18	This panel agrees with Appellant that the admission of Exhibit A-18 is appropriate in
19	light of the admission at hearing of Exhibit D-9. Both exhibits show the status of State v. Debi
20	Meier, Marion County Circuit Court Case No. 13C40782, at particular points in time. Having
21	admitted Exhibit D-9, in fairness and to accurately reflect the status of the State v. Debi Meier
22	case at two points in time before the issuance of this order, this panel grants Appellant's motion
23	to supplement the record. This panel expressly notes, however, that it did not consider Exhibit
24	D-9, Lt. Lance Inman's testimony about Exhibit D-9, or Exhibit A-18 in reaching its findings
25	and conclusions and in issuing this order. The panel concluded that the record in this case,
26

- 1 without consideration of Exhibit D-9, testimony about Exhibit D-9, or Exhibit A-18, is sufficient
- 2 to support the panel's findings of fact, conclusions of law, and order in this case.

FINDINGS OF FACT

3

- 5 1. The District hired Appellant on August 9, 2005, as a counselor at McNary High
- 6 School. By the 2012-13 school year, Appellant was a "contract teacher" with the District within
- 7 the meaning of ORS 342.815(3).1
- 8 2. Appellant has worked as an educator, either as a teacher or a counselor, since
- 9 1986. She obtained her master's degree in counseling in 2001.²
- 10 3. Appellant had not received any discipline or counseling performance before she
- was dismissed by the District. At the end of the 2008-09 school year, Appellant's supervisor,
- who had worked with her for four years, described Appellant to be "an excellent counselor and a
- professional educator that really cares about kids."³
- 14 4. Like every District employee, Appellant had a duty arising under ORS 419B.010
- and District policy to report to the Oregon Department of Human Services (DHS) or law
- 16 enforcement when she had reasonable cause to believe a child with whom she had come in
- 17 contact had suffered abuse within the meaning of ORS 419B.005(1)(a).⁴
- During her employment with the District, Appellant regularly filed formal reports
- 19 of suspected abuse with no criticism about her reasons or method for doing so.⁵

The District requires all employees who have mandatory reporting obligations 6. 1 under ORS 419B.010 to attend annual trainings on their responsibilities. Appellant attended all 2 such trainings during her employment. ⁶ District policy states that "All district employees and 3 students are mandatory reporters of sexual conduct and child abuse" and that "All district 4 employees and students" are subject to the District's policy on the subject. District training 5 materials on the policy inform employees that failure to report suspected abuse is a violation of 6 the policy "possibly resulting in disciplinary action." ⁸ The District also maintains a Sexual 7 Incident Response Committee protocol, which requires District employees to initiate certain 8 steps in the protocol upon hearing of a "sexual incident."9 9 During the 2011-12 school year, AV was a student at McNary High School. 10 10 7. She was in the 11th grade. 11 She was approximately 17 years old. 12 Appellant was assigned to 11 be AV's guidance counselor.¹³ 12 AV had been in special education classes in school since she was in the second 13. grade. 14 She was initially diagnosed with autism and it is believed she may have a form of 14 Asperger's syndrome. 15 AV has a relatively low I.Q., approximately 78 in mathematics and 80's 15 for reading.16 16 AV was assigned to work as an aide in the high school counseling office during 9. 17 the 2011-12 academic year. Her responsibilities included running "call slips" to students in their 18 19 ⁶ Stip. ¶15. ⁷ D-15 at 1. 20 ⁸ D-10 at 5; D-11 at 7. 21 ⁹ D-17: D-18. 22 ¹⁰ The student discussed in this order is referred to as AV, a pseudonym. ¹¹ Stip. ¶3. 23 ¹² TR1 31. 24 ¹³ TR2 61. 25 ¹⁴ TR1 32. ¹⁵ Id. 26 ¹⁶ TR1 32-33.

- 2 periodically in her role as a student aide and she conversed with her. AV was not shy toward
- 3 Appellant. She was always smiling and bubbly. 17
- 4 10. Appellant did not know during the 2011-2012 school year that AV was autistic;
- 5 Appellant learned AV's diagnosis the next school year, in October 2012. 18

6 Events in May 2012

- 7 11. In May 2012, AV was enrolled in a class called Social Understanding, taught by
- 8 Teresia Adams-Sinclair, a teacher in the high school's Learning Resource Center (LRC). 19 The
- 9 class was offered during the first period of the day.²⁰
- 10 12. AV arrived at class one day at the very beginning of the period and was upset and
- 11 crying. She said she and her mother had a fight. 21 She would not go into the classroom.
- 12 Adams-Sinclair asked Instructional Assistant Debra Johnson to escort AV to the counselors'
- 13 office. Adams-Sinclair did not know anything about what had caused the fight between AV and
- 14 her mother. She knew only that she could not address AV's issues and simultaneously manage a
- 15 class full of students.²²
- 16 13. Johnson walked AV to the counselors' office. The counselors' office was
- 17 approximately three minutes away from Adams-Sinclair's classroom. There is no evidence AV
- 18 told Johnson why she was upset.²³
- 19 14. When Johnson and AV arrived at the counselors' office, the counselors' secretary
- 20 notified Appellant and Appellant came out to greet AV. She took AV into her office. No one

- 2 this point; she seemed "fine, mood-wise." Although she was not "smiley and bubbly," she
- 3 smiled when she saw Appellant.
- 4 15. Appellant asked AV what she needed to talk about. AV stated abruptly: "A little
- 5 more than a year ago my brother molested me." Appellant replied: "Well, tell me what that
- 6 means to you. When you say that, what does that mean?"²⁷ Appellant asked this question to
- 7 clarify what "molest" meant to AV. By being around AV as a student aide, Appellant had
- 8 become aware AV had relatively low cognitive abilities and wanted to be sure what she meant by
- 9 "molest" when she used the word. 28 She also observed AV "seemed like she always did" and
- 10 "didn't seem upset or anything." ²⁹
- 11 16. AV said her brother had touched her. Appellant asked where. AV gestured by
- waving her hand in a circular motion in front of her upper torso area, making a large circle in the
- 13 air from approximately her neck down to her stomach area. AV did not use words to describe
- 14 her brother touching any part of her body. 31 Appellant probed with more questions to find out if
- 15 there had been any sexual contact.³² AV seemed "very comfortable telling [Appellant]
- 16 everything."33 AV did not report anything to Appellant to lead her to think any sexual contact
- 17 had occurred.34

- 8 did not believe it had happened and that she needed to talk with AV. Appellant encouraged the
- 9 mother to talk also with the younger brother. She also recommended the mother talk to their
- 10 father. 51 AV's mother said she and the father did not communicate well but she would talk to
- 11 him.⁵² She also told Appellant she would follow up with her the following week.⁵³
- 12 24. AV's mother came with AV to Appellant's office on Monday morning of the

- we've got a plan."55 She did not discuss any details of "the plan" with Appellant. 56 The meeting
- 15 lasted about ten minutes. Appellant concluded the issue had been resolved. AV nodded during
- 16 the meeting, but did not talk much. To Appellant she seemed like she was satisfied with the
- 17 discussion. AV said nothing to object.⁵⁷

10.
11	Despite this extensive training, Ms. Meier admits that she failed to report suspected child abuse in the spring of 2012, when a student, AV, reported sexual
12	abuse to her.
13	AV was escorted to Ms. Meier's office by an instructional assistant who
14	reportedly said to Ms. Meier, "[AV] wants to talk with you." The instructional assistant then left them alone in Ms. Meier's private office. At that point AV
15	disclosed to Ms. Meier that her younger brother, age 12, had touched her breast and upper torso area. Ms. Meier reports that AV said she had been "molested"
16	and then indicated that she had been touched on her breasts and upper torso. Ms. Meier determined that AV in her opinion could not understand the meaning of the 17	word "molested", because AV is a special education student. Ms. Meier also
18	decided AV's brother was just "being a pill" and that the report sounded more like a middle schooler fooling around and not molestation. Ms. Meier determined she
19	would not report the matter to anyone except the Mother (JV) of both AV and the perpetrator.
20	Ms. Meier reported that she told the mother of both students and the mother
21	promised she would get counseling for the student and make a plan to avoid a

1	42. By letter dated January 30, 2013, Appellant appealed to the Oregon Fair
2	Dismissal Appeals Board from the District's decision to dismiss her from employment. 91
3	CONCLUSIONS OF LAW
4	1. District is a "fair dismissal district" under the Accountability for Schools for the
5	21st Century Law. Appellant is a "contract teacher" entitled to a hearing before this panel.
6	2. The factual allegation that Appellant admitted she did not report AV's disclosure
7	to her in May 2012 to law enforcement or to the Oregon Department of Human Services is true
8	and substantiated. The factual allegation that Appellant admitted she did not report sexual abuse
9
10	3. The factual allegation that student AV described sexual abuse to Appellant when
11	AV visited Appellant in her office in May 2012 is not true or substantiated.
12	4. The factual allegation that Appellant had reasonable cause to believe that AV
13	reported sexual abuse to Appellant in May 2012, such that Appellant had a duty under law or
14	District policy to report sexual abuse, is not true or substantiated.
15	5. The true and substantiated facts are not adequate to support the charge of 16	insubordination as a ground for dismissal.
17	6. The true and substantiated facts are not adequate to support the charge of neglect
18	of duty as a ground for dismissal.
19	7. The true and substantiated facts are not adequate to support the charge of any
20	cause which constitutes a ground for the revocation of such contract teacher's teaching license as
21	a ground for dismissal.
22	8. Because this panel concludes that the true and substantiated facts are not adequate
23	to support the grounds for dismissal relied upon by the District, it is unnecessary for this panel to
24	consider whether the dismissal of Appellant was arbitrary, unreasonable or clearly an excessive
25	remedy within the meaning of ORS 342.905(6).

the appellant shall be reinstated with any back pay that is awarded in the order." OAR 586-030-1 2 0070(3). The Facts Relied Upon by the District are not True and Substantiated. H. 3 This panel concludes that the critical facts relied upon by the District to support 4 Appellant's dismissal are not true and substantiated. For the reasons explained below, the panel 5 concludes that Appellant did not admit that she failed to report sexual abuse. The panel also 6 concludes that Appellant did not, as the District alleged, fail "to report suspected child abuse in 7 the spring of 2012, when a student, AV, reported sexual abuse to her." The panel concludes 8 that these two facts—(1) the alleged admission by Appellant, and (2) the alleged disclosure by 9 AV that she experienced sexual abuse—are not true and substantiated. Appellant acknowledges 10 that she did not report AV's disclosure to either law enforcement or to the Department of Human 11 Services. Appellant asserts, however, that AV did not report conduct to her that would constitute 12 sexual abuse. Appellant also asserts that she did not report abuse to law enforcement or DHS 13 because Appellant reasonably concluded that AV disclosed only that her younger brother was 14 "being a pill" to his older sister. This panel agrees Appellant reasonably concluded as she did, 15 for the reasons explained below. 16 First, the panel concludes that it is not true and substantiated that Appellant admitted that 17 AV disclosed sexual abuse to her. The only evidence for this assertion was Assistant Principal 18 Adam Watkins' testimony and his notes of the October 26, 2012 meeting with Appellant, AV's 19 father, and AV's step mother. 93 Assistant Principal Watkins testified that Appellant said that AV 20 said she had been "sexual assaulted." Appellant disputed saying this and the allegation was 21 implicitly contradicted by the testimony of AV's father and the testimony of Lt. Lance Inman. 22 AV's father met with Appellant on October 26, 2012. Lt. Lance Inman interviewed Appellant on 23 October 29, 2012. Both AV's father and Lt. Lance Inman testified at the hearing, and neither 24 25 ⁹² D-1 at 4. 93 TR1 68-69; D-3.

testified that Appellant admitted that AV said she had been "sexually assaulted." Additionally, 1 Principal John Honey testified at the hearing that he never heard Appellant say at the October 31, 2 2012 meeting that AV disclosed that she had been sexually assaulted or sexually molested. 95 3 Assistant Principal Watkins corroborated that during the October 31, 2012 meeting Appellant did 4 not say that AV disclosed that she had been sexually assaulted. 96 For these reasons, this panel concludes that it is not true and substantiated that Appellant admitted that AV described sexual 6 7 abuse to Appellant. 8 It is true and substantiated that an instructional assistant walked AV to Appellant's office in May 2012. Teresia Adams-Sinclair identified this instructional assistant as Debra Johnson. 9 There is, however, no evidence in the record that Johnson told Appellant that AV "wants to talk 10 with you," as the District alleged. The District did not present Johnson as a witness, nor did any 11 12 District employee interview her during the investigation into Appellant's conduct. Johnson's alleged statement is, therefore, not substantiated. 13 14 Further, this panel concludes that it is not true and substantiated that AV described sexual abuse to Appellant. The preponderance of the evidence supports a finding that Appellant 15 16 reasonably construed AV's comments to her in May 2012 as a description of AV's brother 17 teasing AV, engaging in non-sexual horseplay, or attempting to touch AV's breasts in a non-18 sexual way. At the hearing, Appellant acknowledged that AV told her that AV's brother 19 "molested" her. During their meeting, Appellant asked AV clarifying questions. Appellant 20 noticed that AV did not seem upset and she smiled when she saw Appellant. AV did not 21 describe any sexual touching by her brother. AV did not say that her brother had touched her 22 breasts. Based on AV's answers and demeanor during their conversation, Appellant made a

	The panel concludes that Appellant reasonably construed Av's disclosure to liet as a description of AV's brother just "being a pill," in Appellant's words. At the hearing, the District argued that AV's mere use of the word "molest" was sufficient to trigger Appellant's duty to report the conversation to law enforcement and DHS. This panel disagrees. The word "molest" has multiple meanings. 97 Although the word is frequently understood to refer to sexual conduct or, at least, conduct with sexual overtones, this panel concludes that in this specific case, AV's use of the word "molest" was not, standing alone, sufficient to trigger Appellant's child abuse reporting obligation. In this case, the specific word AV used was only one relevant fact among many Appellant considered.
	Appellant made a judgment based on multiple factors in addition to AV's word choice.
	Appellant considered the fact that AV's demeanor during their conversation was not consistent with the gravity of a disclosure of sexual contact by her brother. Appellant also considered AV' answer to Appellant's question about where AV's brother had touched her. In response to the question, AV waved her hand in a circular motion in front of her upper torso and chest area. AV never said that her brother touched her breasts. Her hand gesture did not necessarily indicate sexual touching. AV did not say anything about sexual touching (unless, as the District alleges,
,	using the word "molest" was sufficient on its own to describe sexual touching, which this panel does not conclude in the circumstances of this case). Appellant considered the fact that AV told )	Appellant she had been able to get her brother to stop behavior she did not like, and the fact that ì	AV did not object to Appellant telling AV's mother about AV's disclosure. As Appellant credibly testified:
	Q: [By District's counsel]: Does a child need to say magic į	words to you or to anyone to report child abuse?
Ļ	A: [By Appellant]: I don't know what you mean by "magic words."

Page 18 - FINDINGS OF FACT, CONCLUSIONS OF LAW AND ORDER (Debi Meier v. Salem-Keizer School Dist, FDA-13-01)

Department of Justice LMU:DM4473975

1	Q:	Well, you had the discussion on direct about, did she say anything that led you to believe it was sexual abuse?
2	A;	No, she didn't say anything that led me to believe the touching was sexual in nature.
3	Q:	Okay. And so the word 'molest' to you doesn't connote that's sexual?
5	Ą:	It's an ambiguous word. If she said 'sexually molest,' that
6 7		might get me going in that direction. And I gave her ample opportunity to tell me something that would be considered sexual, and that did not come up in that conversation. 98
8	In light of all	the relevant facts—AV's behavior, demeanor, comments, the absence of a
9	specific description o	of sexual contact, and AV's circular hand gesture—this panel concludes that
10	Appellant did not hav	ve reasonable cause to believe AV was reporting that her younger brother
11	had engaged in sexua	al contact with her. It follows that Appellant did not fail to report sexual
12	abuse, because she ha	ad no reasonable cause to believe sexual abuse had occurred.
13	This panel also concludes that it is not true and substantiated, as the District alleged, that
14	Appellant "determined that AV in her opinion could not understand the meaning of the word
15	'molested,' because A	AV is a special education student." This panel concludes that it is not true
16	and substantiated that Appellant concluded that AV "could not understand the meaning of the 17	word 'molested'" solely because AV was a special education student. The District's charge
18	implies that Appellant rushed to judgment and, in that rush, failed to fully consider the possible
19	sexual connotations of the word "molest." The District's charge also implies that Appellant
20	exercised her judgme	ent about whether she had a child abuse reporting obligation solely based on
21	AV's word choice. T	This panel disagrees. As described above, this panel concludes that
22	Appellant considered	multiple factors, including AV's demeanor, gesture, other comments, and
23	⁹⁸ TR2 110-11	(emphasis added).
24	⁹⁹ D-1 at 4.
25 26	because of AV's cognit molestation or abuse w	hn Honey articulated this concern in his testimony: "Debi made the comment that tive abilities as related to autism, she wasn't even sure that she knew what as. That raised a real red flag for me. I would hope that in that kind of a situation le of caution rather than sort of dismissing it as maybe a kid not really knowing 8.

1	word choice, and reasonably concluded that AV was not disclosing sexual abuse. In reaching its
2 .	decision, the panel took into account the substantiated fact that Appellant called her supervisor,
3	Assistant Principal Sue Smith, the same day that AV visited her in order to share with her
4	supervisor Appellant's plan to call AV's mother. This panel believes that Appellant's call was
5	not consistent with a counselor rushing to judgment to attempt to avoid her abuse reporting
6	obligations. Like Appellant, Assistant Principal Smith did not report AV's disclosure to law
7	enforcement or DHS. There is no evidence that Assistant Principal Smith asked Appellant
8	whether Appellant thought she needed to make such a report. 101
9	The District also alleged that Appellant:
10	[R]eported that she told the mother of both students and the mother promised she
11	would get counseling for the student and make a plan to avoid a repeat of the behavior. Ms Mejer was unable to recall what the plan was and did not follow up
12	with the mother beyond a phone call the following week. The mother of $A\bar{V}$ disputes Ms. Meier's account of their conversation.
13	It is true and substantiated that Appellant called AV's mother and left a voicemail message for
14	her after AV's visit to Appellant's office in May 2012. It is true and substantiated that AV's
15	mother returned the phone call. This panel concludes that the District did not substantiate the
16	allegation that AV's mother "promised she would get counseling" for AV's brother. AV's
17	mother did not testify at the hearing. District Director of Employee Relations Kathryn Nove
18	testified that she talked to AV's mother. Nove's notes, however, state, "No counseling (did not
19	provide to kids). Did not tell Debi about counseling." There is no other evidence on which
20	this panel could rely to conclude that AV's mother promised Appellant she would get counseling
21	for AV.
22
23	Vice Principal Smith at the end of the day. The panel does not accept that implication as true. Vice
24	Principal Smith testified that Appellant "always followed protocol and talked to our SRO or DHS
25	Appellant was covering up or avoiding her duty to report child abuse. There was no evidence to support conclusion that Appellant had any such motive.

Page 20 - FINDINGS OF FACT, CONCLUSIONS OF LAW AND ORDER (Debi Meier v. Salem-Keizer School Dist, FDA-13-01)

Department of Justice LMU:DM4473975

1	The panel concludes that the alleged fact that AV's mother "disputes Ms. Meier's
2	account of their conversation" in May 2012 is not substantiated. AV's mother did not testify at
3	the hearing. District Director of Employee Relations Nove testified about what AV's mother
4	told Nove about what AV's mother allegedly said to Appellant. Nove, however, had not talked
5	to Appellant, and this panel concludes that it cannot rely solely on Nove's hearsay account of
6	AV's mother's alleged comments to find that AV's mother contradicts Appellant's account of
7	their conversation. As between Nove's testimony about AV's mother's statements 104 and
8	Appellant's account of her conversations with AV's mother, this panel weighed Appellant's
9	account more heavily than Nove's testimony.
0	In addition to the reasons for its conclusions described above, this panel notes that the
. 1	District did not present witnesses at hearing for some of the relevant facts at issue. Most
.2	significantly, the District did not present AV as a witness, although she was at least 18 at the 3	time of the hearing. The District also did not present AV's mother as a witness. The District
.4	also did not present Instructional Assistant Debra Johnson, who walked AV from Teresia
.5	Adams-Sinclair's classroom to Appellant's office for the meeting at which AV disclosed to
6	Appellant that her younger brother "molested" her. Appellant's testimony about what AV told
7	her, and what Appellant and AV's mother discussed on the telephone and in person about AV's
8	disclosure, was the only non-hearsay testimony in the record about Appellant's conversations
9	with AV and her mother. This panel relied heavily on that fact in reaching its conclusions.
20	The panel further notes that, in reaching its conclusions, it considered Appellant's
21	credibility and found her to be a credible witness. The panel concluded that Appellant's
22	testimony was specific, detailed and internally consistent. In reaching its conclusion that
23	Appellant's testimony was credible, the panel also noted the fact that the District did not present
24	as witnesses the individuals whose statements the District relied upon to argue that Appellant
25	inaccurately described her meeting with AV and her discussions with AV's mother. Instead of

I	presenting AV as a witness, the District presented testimony from Officer David Zavara of the
2	Keizer Police Department. Officer Zavala repeated statements AV made to him when he
3	interviewed AV, although he acknowledged he did not ask AV questions specifically about what
4	AV told Appellant in May 2012. 105 The District did not present AV's mother as a witness at the
5	hearing. Instead, the District presented testimony from District Director of Employee Relations
6	Kathryn Nove, who repeated statements AV's mother made to her when she met with AV's
7	mother. Although the panel members considered the hearsay statements by AV and by AV's
8	mother, the panel members weighted Appellant's testimony more heavily because Appellant
9	testified credibly at the hearing and was subject to cross examination.
10	III. The True and Substantiated Facts Are Not Adequate to Justify the Statutory Grounds Cited by the District.
11	A. The Charged Facts Are Not Adequate to Justify Dismissal for Insubordination.
12
13	The panel concludes that the true and substantiated facts are not adequate to support
14	dismissal on the basis of insubordination. Insubordination within the meaning of ORS
15	342.865(1)(c) means "disobedience of a direct order or unwillingness to submit to authority,"
16	and must be accompanied by a defiant intent or attitude on the part of the teacher. Bellairs v.
17	Beaverton Sch. District, 206 Or App 186, 199, 136 P3d 93 (2006). In this case, there is no basis
18	for this panel to conclude that the true and substantiated facts support a conclusion that
19	Appellant, with a defiant intent, disobeyed the law or policy or was unwilling to submit to
20	authority in the four ways the District contends. The District contends:
21	First, [Appellant] did not report the suspected abuse to DHS or law enforcement.
22	Second, she informed the parent of the victim who was also the mother of the perpetrator of the reported abuse. Third, she did not make a report to any
23	administrator or the SIRC team. Fourth, she did not follow SIRC protocols. Ms. Meier also failed to inform the non-custodial parent of the reported abuse, further
25	105 In response to Appellant's counsel's question about whether AV mentioned anything about he spring 2012 meeting with a school counselor, Officer Zavala testified, "Not that I recall without having to 26	really look over this. No, not that I have any recollection of. I guess for the record, I didn't ask those questions because that's not what I was looking into. I was looking into the criminal aspect of this." TR 137.

endangering the student when AV and her brother visited her father and step-mother. 106

The true and substantiated facts are not adequate to support these alleged instances of insubordination. We discuss each specific ground in turn, below.

1. Insubordination: Failure or Refusal to Report Sexual Abuse.

The panel concludes that Appellant did not defiantly refuse to report abuse to law enforcement or to the Department of Human Services, as required by ORS 419B.010, and as claimed by the District. Appellant's duty to report child abuse is imposed by ORS 419B.010, which requires any "public or private official having reasonable cause to believe that any child with whom the official comes in contact has suffered abuse ... shall immediately report or cause a report to be made in the manner required in ORS 419B.015." ORS 419B.010(1) (emphasis added). School employees are public or private officials. ORS 419B.005(4). Abuse means sexual abuse "as described in ORS chapter 163." ORS 419B.005(1)(a)(D).

School employees are required to report what they have reasonable cause to believe is sexual abuse as described in ORS chapter 163. Sexual abuse is described in ORS 163.415 (sexual abuse in the third degree), ORS 163.425 (sexual abuse in the second degree), and ORS 163.427 (sexual abuse in the first degree). Both ORS 163.415 and ORS 163.427 require "sexual contact." "Sexual contact" between people is described as "any touching of the sexual or other intimate parts of a person or causing such person to touch the sexual or other intimate parts of the actor for the purpose of arousing or gratifying the sexual desire of either party." ORS 163.305(6). 108

¹⁰⁶ See, e.g., D-1 at 5.

²² Dec, e.g., Dar a

¹⁰⁷ The District's charged facts refer only to "sexual abuse," see D-1 at 4. At the hearing and in their closing briefs, neither party argued that Appellant failed to report any assault, any non-accidental injury, or any mental injury, as described in ORS 419B.005(1)(a)(A) & (B). This panel did not, therefore, consider any of those definitions of abuse in its ruling.

ORS 163.425 does not use the phrase sexual contact, but states that a person commits the crime of sexual abuse in the second degree when the "person subjects another person to sexual intercourse, deviate sexual intercourse or, except as provided in ORS 163.412, penetration of the vagina, anus or penis with any object other than the penis or mouth of the actor and the victim does not consent thereto[.]"

1	The panel concludes that Appellant did not defiantly refuse to report sexual abuse to law
2	enforcement or to the Department of Human Services, as required by ORS 419B.010 and District
3	policy. 109 It is not true and substantiated that Appellant had "reasonable cause to believe" that
4	AV's younger brother had sexual contact with AV "for the purpose of arousing or gratifying the
5	sexual desire of either party." See ORS 163.305(6). It is true and substantiated that AV told
6	Appellant that her younger brother "molested" her, and that, when asked by Appellant whether
7	AV's brother touched her, AV indicated in the affirmative by waving her hand in a circular
8	motion in front of her upper torso area and chest area. Appellant asked AV clarifying questions.
9	AV did not say that her brother touched her breasts. AV did not tell Appellant anything that
10	resulted in Appellant concluding that sexual contact had occurred. AV seemed comfortable
11	talking to Appellant, and did not object when Appellant said she was going to contact AV's
12	mother. This panel concludes that Appellant, based on her many years as a school counselor and
13	the training she had received, reasonably concluded that AV's statement to Appellant was a
14	description of AV's brother teasing AV or, as Appellant described it, AV's brother "being a
15	pill."10 AV's statement did not, however, give Appellant reasonable cause to believe that AV's
16	brother had sexually abused AV. No report to law enforcement or DHS, therefore, was required.
17	It follows that Appellant was not insubordinate in failing to report AV's disclosure.
18	In addition, the panel also notes that there are no true and substantiated facts that
19	Appellant's non-report to law enforcement or DHS was defiant or marked by a defiant intent.
20	This panel believes that Appellant's conduct was inconsistent with defiance. Appellant called
21	her direct supervisor, Assistant Principal Sue Smith, the same day AV told Appellant that her
22	brother "molested" her. Appellant told Smith she planned to tell AV's mother about the
23	conversation. Appellant's call to Smith is inconsistent with a defiant attitude.

1	Similarly, Appellant's ready acknowledgement to AV's father in October 2012 that AV
2	had visited her office and told her that her younger brother had "molested" her is also
3	inconsistent with a defiant attitude. The panel also concludes that Appellant cooperated with Lt.
4	Lance Inman when he interviewed her. These acts by Appellant are consistent with the fact that
5	Appellant genuinely believed that AV had told her about her younger brother "being a pill." The
6	panel finds it unlikely that Appellant would have so readily shared information with her direct
7	supervisor, with AV's father, and with Lt. Lance Inman if in fact she was defiantly refusing to
8	report sexual abuse to law enforcement or DHS.
9	Finally, the panel notes that it was unpersuaded by the District's argument that Appellant
0	violated a District policy by asking AV clarifying questions when AV visited her office in May
1	2012. Debbie Joa, the District employee who prepares and presents the District's training on
2	child abuse reporting, acknowledged that an educator asking clarifying questions to determine if
13	abuse has occurred is appropriate in some circumstances. Specifically, Joa testified that it would
14	be appropriate for a District to ask follow-up questions of a student who reported being touched
15	by her brother. 111
16	2. Insubordination: Informing AV's Mother of AV's Visit.
17	The panel also concludes that the true and substantiated facts are inadequate to support
18	dismissal on the basis that Appellant defiantly told AV's mother about AV's statement. To
19	establish insubordination, there must be credible evidence that the District imposed a lawful
20	order or directive, that it clearly communicated that order or directive, and that the teacher
21	willfully refused to obey the order. Sherman v. Multnomah Education Service Dist., FDA-95-4,
22	p. 23 (1996). The panel concludes that (a) the District did not impose an order or directive that
25	TR1 188. Ms. Joa testified that it would be appropriate to ask open-ended questions if a student reported that "my brother touched me," as opposed to "My brother touched me on a certain place
26	on the body.' Just, 'My brother touched me.'" This panel concludes that even considering this dichotomy, as described by Ms. Joa, Appellant's clarifying questions to AV were consistent with the District's policy.

1	prohibited Appellant from talking to AV's mother after AV's disclosure to Appellant, and (b)
2	even if it had such an order or directive, the District did not clearly communicate it to Appellant
3	This panel concludes that there is no evidence that any District policy prohibited
4	Appellant from calling AV's mother in May 2012 under the circumstances in this case. The
5	District relies on a policy identified as KLG-R-1. The language in that policy, however,
6	prohibits staff members from informing parents about child abuse reports to law enforcement or
7	DHS:
8	2.01 Any school employee having reasonable cause to believe that any student
9	with whom he/she comes in contact in an official capacity has suffered abuse, or that any adult with whom he/she comes in contact has abused a student, shall
0	report immediately to Services to Children and Families or a law enforcement agency.
1	2.01.01 Staff members may not inform parents of such reports. 113
2	This policy did not, as the District maintains, direct Appellant not to discuss with AV's mother
3	what AV told Appellant in May 2012. If Appellant had reported to law enforcement or DHS,
4	this policy would have prohibited Appellant from disclosing that report to AV's mother.
5	The District also relies on a fact sheet entitled, "How Do I Report Suspected Child Abus
6	or Sexual Conduct Involving a District Employee or Student." Like the policy discussed
7	above, however, this fact sheet instructs staff not to tell the victim's parents about a law
8	enforcement or DHS investigation. This panel concludes that the fact sheet did not direct
9	Appellant not to call AV's mother or not to tell AV's mother about her conversation with AV.
20	In addition, this panel also concludes that even if the District did have a policy or
21	directive that prohibited Appellant from talking with AV's mother after AV's disclosure to
22 -	Appellant, the District did not clearly communicate that directive to Appellant. The evidence is
23	consistent that late in the afternoon on the day AV visited Appellant's office, Appellant called
24	her direct supervisor Assistant Principal Sue Smith. Both Appellant and Smith testified that

1	Appellant told Smith she intended to call AV's mother. Smith testified that she did not attempt
2	to dissuade Appellant from making this telephone call. Smith testified that Appellant's proposed
3	call to AV's mother was "a normal reaction." Specifically, Smith testified, "From what she had
4	told me AV had reported, it sounded like a normal reaction. It's just an issue with brother and
5	sister, you know, 'I'm calling the mom.",115
6	This panel concludes that the District did not have a policy or directive prohibiting
7	Appellant from contacting AV's mother to disclose what AV had told her. This panel also
8	concludes that even if the District did have such a policy or directive that applied in the specific
9	circumstances presented by AV's disclosure to Appellant, the District did not clearly
10	communicate that policy or directive to Appellant. Therefore, Appellant was not insubordinate
11	when she called AV's mother after AV visited her office in May 2012.
12	3. Insubordination: Failure to Report to any Administrator or the
13	SIRC Team.
14	The panel also concludes that the true and substantiated facts are inadequate to support
15	dismissal on the basis that Appellant was insubordinate when she did not report AV's disclosure
16	to any administrator or to the Sexual Incident Response Committee, which the District refers to
17	as "SIRC." In support of this charge, the District relies on its procedure entitled, "Child Abuse
1.8	or Sexual Conduct: Reporting Suspicions, PAP-P001."116 That procedure states, in relevant part:
19
20	3.4 If the suspected abuser is a student in the district, the reporting employee notifies the school administrator or supervisor immediately after making the report .
21	3.4.1 If the administrator or supervisor is unavailable, the employee
22	immediately notifies the Sexual Incident Response Coordinator. 117

Page	27 - FINDINGS OF FACT, CONCLUSIONS OF LAW AND ORDER (Debi Meier v. Salem-Keizer School Dist. FDA-13-01) LMU:DM4473975

1	For two reasons, the panel concludes that the facts are inadequate to demonstrate that
2	Appellant was insubordinate when she did not report AV's disclosure to any administrator or to
3.	the SIRC pursuant to this procedure. First, the District did not demonstrate that this procedure
4	required Appellant to report AV's disclosure. By its own terms, this procedure required
5	Appellant to notify a school administrator or supervisor "immediately after making the report" to
6	the school resource officer, law enforcement or DHS. Here, Appellant made no such report;
7	therefore, this procedure did not require her to notify an administrator or the SIRC. Moreover,
8	this procedure requires district employees to report child abuse or sexual conduct, both of which
9	are defined in the procedure. For all the reasons discussed above, this panel concludes that
10	Appellant reasonably believed that AV did not disclose abuse or sexual conduct. Therefore,
11	Appellant was not required by this procedure to make any report.
12	Second, this panel concludes that to the extent this procedure did require Appellant to
13	notify a school administrator, Appellant did so. The panel was persuaded that Appellant called
14	her direct supervisor, Assistant Principal Sue Smith, and accurately reported her conversation
15	with AV and her proposed plan to call AV's mother. In light of Appellant's call to Assistant
16	Principal Smith, this panel cannot conclude that Appellant was insubordinate with regard to this
17	District procedure.
18	4. Insubordination: Failure to Follow SIRC Protocols.
19	The panel also concludes that the true and substantiated facts are inadequate to support
20	dismissal on the basis that Appellant was insubordinate when she did not follow the SIRC
21	protocols. As the panel understands this charge, the District is arguing that Appellant was
22	insubordinate in not initiating the first step in the SIRC protocols. The first step is contacting the
23	School Resource Officer. In support of this charge, the District relies on a number of charts and
24	documents, all of which indicate that a "sexual incident" is the event that triggers the SIRC
25	protocols. 118 "Sexual incident" is defined in the District's protocols as follows:
26
	118 See D-17 D-18 and D-25.

Page 28 - FINDINGS OF FACT, CONCLUSIONS OF LAW AND ORDER (Debi Meier v. Salem-Keizer School Dist, FDA-13-01)

Department of Justice LMU:DM4473975

1 2 3 4 5 6 7	Sexual Incident: Any verbal or physical (contact or non-contact) sexual behavior that occurs on school grounds, or during a school sponsored activity, or which otherwise impacts learning or student access to education. The following is an incomplete list of situations that constitute a sexual incident: sexual harassment, sexual bullying, exposing genitalia, mutually agreed to sexual touching, coerced or unwanted sexual touching, viewing/distributing pornography, sexting, etc. 119 This panel concludes that Appellant was not insubordinate when she did not follow the SIRC protocols. The SIRC protocols are relevant only when there is a sexual incident. This panel acknowledges that a "sexual incident," as it is used in the District's protocols, is a broad	d
8	concept. Dr. Jeremy Wilson Kenney, who facilitated the District's SIRC protocols from 200	9
9	until approximately 2011, testified to the intended broad definition:
0	Q: [By District's Counsel]: What constitutes a sexual incident?
1	A: [By Dr. Wilson Kenney]: So a sexual incident could be anything as 12	mundane as, like, we've got an elementary school student peeing in the bark dust, is what I always used to say to school counselors. It can be relatively mundane sexual behavior all the way up to highly concerning sexual behavior.
14 15	And a sexual incident refers to any kind of concerning sexual behavior that occurs inside or outside of school. So this could be something that happens off campus, outside of school hours, or something that occurs on
16	campus.
17 18	The idea of defining it in that way was to make sure that whenever any school official had the knowledge of some concerning sexual behavior, they understood there was liability around that and that they would
19	address those behaviors whether they occurred at school or on campus or off campus. 120
20	The panel concludes that Appellant was required to initiate the SIRC protocols if she	was
21	aware of a sexual incident. For all the reasons discussed above, this panel concludes that
22	Appellant reasonably believed that AV did not disclose a "sexual incident" even under the b	road
23	definition of sexual incident testified to by Dr. Wilson Kenney. Moreover, even if reasonab	le
24 25	minds could disagree about whether Appellant should have initiated the SIRC protocols,
26	¹¹⁹ D-17 at 10. ¹²⁰ TR1 259-60 (emphases added).

Page 29 - FINDINGS OF FACT, CONCLUSIONS OF LAW AND ORDER (Debi Meier v. Salem-Keizer LMU:DM4473975 School Dist, FDA-13-01)

1	Appellant's failure to do so was not accompanied by defiance, as required to support dismissal
2	on the basis of insubordination. Appellant's call to her direct supervisor the same day as her
3	conversation with AV obviates any finding of defiance in the circumstances presented by this
4	case.
5	5. Insubordination: Failure to Inform the Non-Custodial Parent.
6	The panel also concludes that the true and substantiated facts are inadequate to support
7	dismissal on the basis that Appellant was insubordinate when she did not report AV's disclosure
8	to AV's non-custodial parent, her father. The evidence did not demonstrate that the District had
9	a clearly communicated rule or policy that required Appellant to call AV's non-custodial parent
0	to discuss AV's disclosure. When Appellant called her supervisor after AV's visit to Appellant's
1	office, for example, and discussed her plan to call AV's mother, her supervisor did not direct her
2	to call AV's father as well. There are no true and substantiated facts supporting a finding that
3	Appellant was required to call AV's father. Even if Appellant were so required, there are no true
4	and substantiated facts in the record that Appellant defiantly refused to do so.
5	B. The Charged Facts Are Not Adequate to Justify Dismissal for Neglect of Duty.
7	This panel concludes that the true and substantiated facts are inadequate to support a
8	dismissal for neglect of duty within the meaning of ORS 342.865(1)(d). Neglect of duty means
9	the "failure to engage in conduct designed to result in proper performance of duty." Wilson v.
20	Grants Pass School District, FDA 04-7, p. 9 (2005). Neglect of duty can be demonstrated
21	through evidence of "repeated failures to perform duties of a relatively minor importance or a
22	single instance of a failure to perform a critical duty." Id., p. 10, citing Enfield v. Salem-Keizer
23	School District, FDA-91-1 (1992), affirmed without opinion, 118 Or App 162 (1993), rev.
24	denied, 316 Or 142 (1993).
2.5	The true and substantiated facts are not adequate to demonstrate that Appellant repeatedly
26	failed to perform minor duties or failed to perform a critical duty. The District and Appellant

1	agree that the duty to report clinic addse is a critical duty. Tot all the reasons discussed 400 to,
2	however, this panel concludes that Appellant reasonably believed that AV disclosed only that her
3	brother had engaged in non-sexual horseplay and had attempted to touch her in her upper torso or
4	breast area. AV's disclosure was not a disclosure of sexual contact, and Appellant had no duty
5	to report it to law enforcement or DHS. This panel believes that Appellant did report what she
6	heard to her supervisor, Assistant Principal Sue Smith, as was appropriate.
7	Further, when there is evidence that the employer has not previously considered the
8	conduct at issue as grounds for immediate termination, a single failure to perform a duty does no
9	rise to the level of neglect of duty within the meaning of ORS 342.865(1)(d). See, e.g., Wilson,
10	FDA 04-7, at p. 10 (conduct "which is tolerated or dealt with only by discussion, comments on
11	evaluations, or memos of concern show that a district does not consider the conduct to require
12	any special remedial action and thus is not of special significance with respect to continued
13	employment"). Here, Principal John Honey testified that a classified employee who failed to
14	report a possible sexual assault was not terminated, and received only a letter of directive. 121
15	This evidence undermines any conclusion that Appellant's conduct constitutes a sufficient
16	neglect of duty to warrant dismissal. In addition, this panel is also persuaded by Appellant's
17	argument that the evidence shows that the District has previously imposed lesser discipline on
18	other District employees who have failed to report claims of possible abuse. 122 In short, this
19	panel concludes that the true and substantiated facts are inadequate to support dismissal for
20	neglect of duty.
21	C. The Charged Facts Are Not Cause Constituting a Ground for the Revocation
22	Of a Contract Counselor's License Under ORS 342.865(1)(i).
23	This panel concludes that the true and substantiated facts are not adequate to support a
24	dismissal on the basis that Appellant has engaged in conduct constituting a ground for the 25 revocation of her counseling license, within the meaning of ORS 342.865(1)(i). Failure to report child abuse is not itself a mandatory ground for revocation of an educator's license. Instead, the 2

 1
     Teacher Standards and Practices Commission may revoke an educator's license for "gross 3 neglect of duty." OAR 584-020-0040(3)(c). Gross neglect of duty is "any serious and material 4 inattention or breach of professional responsibilities," which may include failing to report child 5 abuse pursuant to ORS 419B.010. OAR 584-020-0040(4)(s). Appellant presented evidence of 6 multiple cases in which the TSPC did not revoke or suspend an educator's license for failure to 7 report child abuse. 123 Neither party presented evidence that as of the hearing date Appellant's 8 license had been suspended or revoked.
 9
            For all the reasons discussed above, this panel does not believe that Appellant engaged in 10 any serious and material inattention or breach of professional responsibilities. Appellant made a 11 decision, based on multiple factors, that AV's description of her younger brother's conduct did 12 not constitute a disclosure of sexual contact. Even if Appellant's decision could be considered 13 an example of poor judgment (which this panel does not find), this panel nonetheless does not 14 believe that Appellant's exercise of her judgment, under the circumstances in this particular case, 15 was tantamount to a gross neglect of duty constituting grounds for the revocation of her license.
16
     The true and substantiated facts are not, therefore, adequate to support a dismissal pursuant to 17
     ORS 342.865(1)(i).
