INTRODUCTION

Oregon Head Start PreKindergarten

OHS PreK is a comprehensive, high quality early childhood development program serving children ages three to five from families living at or below the federal poverty level. The program offers integrated services to support school readiness. Services include:

- Preschool education and early childhood development
- Child health/mental health and nutrition
- Parent education and family support

OHS PreK programs are serving children in all 36 counties in Oregon. These programs receive funding from the Federal Office of Head Start, the Oregon Department of Education, local sources or a combination of these funding sources. A state and federal partnership agreement allows jointly funded grantees to blend state and federal dollars to provide a seamless, integrated program that is tailored to meet the needs of children and families in their community.

In addition, specialized Head Start programs in Oregon include:

- Early Head Start, a comprehensive program for pregnant women, infants and toddlers.
- Migrant/Seasonal Head Start, funded by the Migrant and Seasonal Programs Branch of the Office of Head Start, serves children ages 0-5 of migrant and seasonal farm workers.
- Tribal Head Start, funded by the American Indian-Alaska Native Program Branch of the Office of Head Start, serves 3-5 year old Native American children on reservations and in urban areas.

Enrollment in OHS PreK is handled at the local program level. You can use this directory to find the program closest to you or contact:

This directory also contains information about the following early childhood programs associated with the Oregon Department of Education.

Early Intervention/Early Childhood Special Education

Early Intervention (EI - services for children birth through age 2) and Early Childhood Special Education (ECSE – for children age 3 to kindergarten) are federal and state funded programs that provide specialized services to children with disabilities and their families. EI services are provided in natural settings, such as the family's home, and typically include therapies for the child, as well as training and support for the parents on how to work with their child. ECSE services are educational in nature and are provided in the least restrictive environment, examples of which include Head Start classrooms, child care programs and ECSE classrooms, depending on the needs of the individual child. EI and ECSE services are always free to families.

Each child enrolled in EI or ECSE services has an Individual Family Service Plan (IFSP) which addresses the child's individual needs and is developed by a team that includes parents and professionals. Local area contractors provide the EI and ECSE services described in the IFSP either directly or by subcontracting with other local programs.

Referrals can be made by contacting the local EI/ECSE program in your county.

Title I Part C Migrant Education funding comes from the U.S. Department of Education (USED) and is administered by the Oregon Department of Education (ODE), Office of Educational Improvement and Innovation, Migrant Education Service Center.
